

Q. What is called information?

The meaningful result of processed data is called information by the help of which we can make decisions.

On the other hand information is data put into context.

Information is utilised by humans in some significant way.