

Q.3 - What is the definition of data?

Ans → In computer data is information that has been translate in to a form that is efficient for movement or processing relative to today's computers and trans mission media data is information converted in to binary digital form. It is acceptable for data to be used as a singular subject or a plural subject.